Reflections From a Grateful Heart

community over the past five years. Women's lives have been radically changed and we see evidence of healing all around, even in the midst of brokenness. We recently launched our third candle scent, Healing, and it reminds me of our collective brokenness. We truly believe that the healing process gives way to mending our broken pieces by knitting them together with the bond of love. The words of our healing anthem "No Turning Back" can ring true for all of us: "I've been healing, growing out of my pain No longer broken, set free from my chains Given a chance to belong

And a chance to be whole Rising above and taking control Today I am fearless, today I am bold No turning back I've reclaimed my soul" Even in our brokenness, we can all be free and reclaim our soul. I am so grateful for YOU, our Rooted in Love community. Because you have chosen to give your heart, time and your resources, women living on the margins of our community are given the opportunity to heal and experience unconditional love, many for the first time in their lives. Thank you for continuing to join us on this healing journey. -Beth Messick, Executive Director
